

Johnson & Johnson is a company of enduring strength. As the science of human health and well-being has grown, we've been able to grow along with it. Even more important, we've helped shape and define what health and well-being means in everyday lives. Our products, services, ideas and giving now touch the lives of at least one billion people every day.

Janssen is the Pharmaceutical division of Johnson & Johnson. Our mission is to serve the healthcare needs of our community by providing innovative and high quality pharmaceutical products to those who need them. In our absolute commitment to patients, we build innovative, integrated health care solutions that will restore and extend the quality of life. Our aim is to develop sustainable, integrated health care solutions by working with patients, physicians and other stakeholders, based on partnerships of trust and transparency. We continue to invest in our people to realize their personal growth and to build our leaders of the future.

At Janssen, you will be provided a comprehensive training and development program to help build a strong foundation for continued success. This will be coupled with energizing and fulfilling challenges that will provide exciting avenues for growth and knowledge. Your success with us will depend exclusively on merit and performance. We provide the opportunities, you determine your success!

We are now looking to hire dynamic young individuals to join us in our continual journey to serve our patients and our community. You would be a Pharmacy or Bio Life Sciences graduate with a passion for our community; a desire to work with people; and possess high energy and a drive for success. You would be a self-starter, with a strong sense of independence and responsibility, and a willingness to do what it takes to contribute to the company. Integrity and a deep sense of commitment would be words used to describe you.

We look forward to welcoming you into the Johnson & Johnson family of companies.
